City Election, Jan. 14th.

FOR MAYOR.
JAMES H. SMITH.—We are authorized to announce James H. Smith as a candidate for election as Mayor of the Third Ward at the ensuing municipal election.

FOR ALDERMEN.
E. GILBERT.—We are authorized to announce E. Gilbert as a candidate for election as Alderman of the Third Ward at the ensuing municipal election.

SHORT STOPS.

Did you say that?
Grasp thee, thine overcoat.
All kinds of small game is plenty here.

Winter don't stop Clarksville's progress.
Spectacular sport has been lively in this city for several days past.

A cheerful sight to natives of the city is the red and white of the new coming of the stores of the city are rapidly being filled with Christmas goods of all kinds.

It has been broken for the new ice on the first street between Strawberry and Main.

Dry hides and deer skins are leading all her specialties in the general produce trade now.

Alderman Gilbert has been out all week with a force of street repair men near the city of Commerce street.

Mr. J. M. Crumbacker and Miss Joe McGhee, a developing couple from Kentucky were married in this city last Thursday.

The municipal election will occur in this city on the 14th of next month. There is no excitement regarding it so far.

The Howerton & Macrae building at First and Franklin streets is being painted and red in white, both side and front.

Candidates for the various municipal offices of Clarksville are becoming plenty as a time for the election approaches.

The amount of goods and wares sent to the city in wagons during the past week by merchants of Clarksville would astonish the people if it could be enumerated.

The regular term of the Criminal court will begin Monday. The murderers of J. T. Smith will be tried next Tuesday. The court will continue in session about a week.

Mr. W. B. Cross, has built a flour, grist and mill at Freedom in this county. This is a great convenience to that neighborhood and there is no doubt about it paying a paying industry.

Daniel Griffin, a colored man of the Fourth ward of this county, was shot and fatally killed by the accidental discharge of a shot gun while on hunting last Wednesday night.

The serenading party which made such excellent music at the residence of Mr. George Atkins, were highly appreciated by the ladies visiting there. Many thanks for the compliment.

Mr. E. Ellett has secured and occupied a beautiful new house on Seventh street between Commerce and Madison, just built by Cooke. Mrs. Ellett would take a few boarders at the new place.

William Revel is said to be one of the best actors that has yet been heard of in Clarksville production. His make up department in his last act at the Opera house are spoken of as "genius" in their line.

It is said that the city is possessed of a number of petty thieves, most of whom are small boys. Such matters as this should be attended to by the police. Wake up, gentlemen of the star, and catch the scoundrels.

Mr. Hurst, the wholesale grocer has paid in the past ten days $2,500 for freight on heavy goods from New Orleans. This is the largest amount ever paid in the city by any firm ever in this city. The business is progressing.

The alarm of fire last Tuesday evening was caused by a candle overturning and setting a coffin being trimmed at J. F. Coult's on Strawberry street. The burning article was pushed out a back window and fire damage was obviated.

The enterprise of broom making was begun about one year ago by P. E. Horndon, a native of Logan county, Ky. It was a very ill beginning, being without capital and but few friends. The business has increased rapidly within a year as a result of energy and thrift.

The merchants of Clarksville who have been selling out fresh meats have been notified to quit the practice, and it will be continued with a matter of protection. Nearly all the legitimate butchers, of course, are out.

A number of citizens have called out Mr. Whitfield for Alderman in the Eighth ward. He will likely have no opposition, and undoubtedly make a wide awake energetic representative. He is one of the best business men of the city, and no man enjoys more popularity with the people of Clarksville.

Don Daniel a slick colored boarder at Hunts on Market square, got into the hands of Lewis Trice, another boarder there, Wednesday night, and after donning all his good clothing left the city, and is said to be in Chicago. Daniel was released from prison where he has been confined for forgery.

Great many survivors of the forty-ninth Tennessee Infantry Regiment of Confederate soldiers have, for a number of years, desired a reunion of their commands in order that such an event may occur, and that those interested is called to attention that Dover, Stewart county, would be a desirable place at which to hold the reunion. It was at Dover the regiment was disbanded, and a short distance from there, at Donelson, they were virtually disbanded.

RELIGIOUS REMARKS.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES OF ALL CREEDS, AND AT ALL POINTS.

Jews, Gentiles and Other Sectarians as Observed Through a Newspaper Microscope With the Most Accurate Observation.

The movement to restore the Old Brick Church at Smithfield, which is the oldest church in Virginia, has been successful, and is nearly complete. This church was built in 1652, and was occupied continuously for two centuries. Among the contributions to the restoration were 2,000 bricks which had formed the walls of the Bay Church, which though of the later date, was associated with the Old Brick Church. These bricks have passed through several hands since they were torn from the Bay Church, having served most of their time in the walls of a farmer's kitchen, while part of them stood for a while as the walls of a burying ground. Now they strengthen the walls of the restored Old Brick Church. The covering put on the restored edifice is the fourth it has had. The first was put on in 1652, the second in 1727, the third in 1787, and the fourth in 1887.

—165 years, in 1787 the second was put on and remained until about 1821 (eighty-four years), when now some were substituted for them. These remained until last summer, when they were removed, the church roof having fallen in. There will be twenty-one stained glass memorial windows in the church. Of the side windows one will be a memorial of the Indian Princess Pocahontas, the first fruits of the gospel in Virginia. The window immediately opposite this one, on the north side, will be a memorial of the Rev. Robert Hunt, the apostle from Christian England to the South, and the one immediately west of his will be in memory of Col. Josiah Parker, son of the Earl of Macclesfield Parker, a member of Washington's staff, and the first member of Congress from that district.

Rome will begin to howl on the 14th, of this month, and the eternal city will be in a blaze of glory. The cause of this festivity is the fifteenth anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of his Honor Pope Leo XIII. Joachim Pecci, in the world, is Count of Caprineto, and was born March 2, 1810. All educational advantages that wealth could give were afforded him. He graduated from the College of Viterbo, the Gregorian University of Sapienza.

He was ordained a priest in 1837, and appointed Governor of Benevento. For his services in that position he was given the rank of Monsignor and the post of Governor of Umbria. Subsequently he was made Nuncio to Belgium, and was consecrated Archbishop of Damietta. He then returned to the See of Perugia, and shortly afterwards was promoted to the College of Cardinals.

February 20, 1878, he was chosen as the successor of Pope Pius IX. His acts since then are well known, and have earned for him the position of mediator in national differences, and his ability and diplomacy have won the admiration of the world, whether Catholic, Protestant or otherwise.

Every rank and station of life will be seen at this assemblage. Certain days will be devoted to the reception of each delegation. The day for the receiving of the pecuniary offerings will be a notable one. Not less than $5,000,000 will go from the United States to say nothing of the great contributions from other parts of the world.

Cardinal Gibbons' red hat, together with four oil portraits of the cardinal, arrived in New York from Rome, and were taken charge of by Maj. Kelley, of Brooklyn, until the cardinal's return to Baltimore from his visit to the Pacific slope. One of the portraits has been sent to the cardinal's brother, Mr. John T. Gibbons, of New Orleans; one belongs to Maj. Kelley, and the other two to Baltimore, one for Michael Jenkins, and the other for the archiepiscopal residence on North Charles street. The portraits were painted in Paris and are excellent. The red hat is part of the cardinalate ceremony and serves but twice, once when it was placed on the cardinal's head by the pope, and next when it shall rest upon the catafalque at his obsequies. It will then be suspended in the cathedral after the manner in which the red hat of the late Cardinal McCloskey is suspended in St. Patrick's cathedral, New York.

In the meantime Cardinal Gibbons' red hat will be kept in a place of safety in the archiepiscopal residence. The hat is round and has a low crown and wide stiff brim, from the inside of which hang fifteen tassels. The red suit cap which the cardinal wears indoors and under his high hat when on the street is of zanecheito.

[Adam, The Catholic.]
It is a noticeable fact that a strong feeling is gradually developing in favor of the restoration of the temporal power of the Pope. It is not wholly confined to Catholic circles, but is shared in by leading Protestant members of powerful political parties in the old world, who recognize the necessity of a temporal sovereign who, in the long ages of the past, may be relied upon as an arbiter of international questions that vitally affect the interests of nations. Who is so worthy of the confidence of monarchs and rulers of the people as the spiritual head of the Catholic church and the temporal prince of the Papal States? The equal of reigning monarchs in his capacity of supreme ruler of the Papal domain, and the superior of all as the viceregent of Christ, the successor of Peter, and the universally recognized spiritual head of untold millions in every civilized land. Since the outrageous usurpation by Victor Emmanuel, until the present time, a feeling has existed that the Holy Father should be restored to his rightful possessions. That feeling has at last taken definite shape, and is given expression to by all who believe in justice and right. France and Germany, as well as Spain, have intimated their desire to see Leo XIII. again in possession of his temporal power, and the successor of his bandit King of Italy will doubtless endeavor to comply with the almost universal demand and be presented in a more forcible manner.

[Jackson (Tenn.) Tribune and Sun.]
The West Tennessee conference of the colored Methodist Episcopal church in America, Bishop L. H. Holsey, of Augusta, Ga., presiding, met in the Liberty street Methodist church recently. There is quite a large delegation both ministerial and lay in attendance, and they are a very fine looking orderly Christian people. This conference was organized in the church in which it is now assembled, by the M. E. church south, in 1870, and has gone on increasing in usefulness, piety and intelligence, until now it is one of the most useful bodies of Christians in the south. It has a wide field for usefulness and it seems to be occupying it very successfully. May it long live and prosper in every good word and work.

Rev. B. J. Spalding, after a lingering illness, died a few days since, at his mother's residence, near Lebanon, Ky. "Father Ben," as he was familiarly called, was a brother of Rev. J. L. Spalding, Bishop of Peoria, Ill., and a nephew of the late lamented and renowned Most Rev. M. J. Spalding and the Very Rev. B. J. Spalding, at one time administrator of the diocese of Louisville.

The Methodist church, Smithland, was burned a few days since. It was built in 1830. It was handsomely furnished inside. The fine organ was saved.

The estimate of wife Rev. S. A. Steel, of the Fifth and Walnut streets M. E. church, Louisville, died last Sunday and the remains were conveyed to Memphis for interment. Her maiden name was Mrs. Mary Burns, of Petersburg, Va.

ACTION AT ST. PAUL.

We the undersigned officers, of St. Paul A. M. E. Zion church, hereby express our respect for our beloved pastor, Rev. H. W. Smith who has served us so faithfully as a minister during the year. Be it

Resolved, That we earnestly request that the Bishop may return him to us, to continue the good work which he has begun. Be it

Resolved, That we here publicly state that he is a worthy pastor and zealous worker in the cause of Christ. We further say we bid him God speed.
